official communication on the subject of the appointment of Commissioners to a Peace Conference. "Blood letting" is his only idea of settling our national difficulties, and it is a theory which appears to be shared by four out of five of his republican colleagues in Congress. To what a depth of degradation is the success of abolitionism reducing the country!

NEWS FROM THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

Condition of Affairs in Ecuador-Warlike Preparations in Peru Against Ecua-dor—Suspension of Dipiomatic Relations Between the two Countries—The Sico Grant, &c., &c. Washington, March, 10, 1861.

Official despatches have been received from Guayaquil to the 13th February. The republic of Ecuador was prospering and tranquil, and gradually recovering from the effects of the misrule of France and the occupation of uayaquil by the Peruvian army under Castilla.

The Peruvian President, whose policy appears to be to disturb the peace of his neighbors, was again making warlike preparations against benador, and in order to carry out his designs of conquest, frustrated by the vic-tory gained by General Flores over Franco, he insists that the present government at Quito shall recognise, without new credentials, Doctor Corpancho whom Castilla had sent to Franco when in command at Guayaquii. This preten-sion is regarded by the Foundorians as absurdand inso-lent, inasmuch as Franco was a local and revolutionary eader, and Castilla, in entering into an alliance with him and accrediting a minister, committed a direct and of-fensive attack against the central government of the republic. Nevertheless, the present government of Ecuador, overlooking that injury, declared that it was willing to receive a diplomatic agent from Peru, provided he presented letters of credence. But Castilla has refused to agree to this reasonable offer, and his agent has left Guaya-quil on board a Peruvian war steamer, and the relations between the two nations are suspended. The Ecuadorians declare that they do not dread war with Peru, trusting that the military skill of General Flores will vanquish the Peruvians, as it formerly did in the battle of Tarqui. President Haccia Moreno remained in Guavaguil making preparations for defence.

Not the least singular feature in the policy of the Peru vian President Howards Ecuador is, that he insists in and revolutionary authority, in open contradiction to the principles he asserted in the question between the Punta de Lobos, in which he denied the right of their captains to load guano under permits granted by the by the revolutionary government of Vianco.

The Broadway Railroad-The Oppor of the Measure—The The Tun led strance Again-Bellevue Hospital-The Central Park-City Chamberlain-Superintendent Kennedy in Search of a Plot-Petitions for Office-Bill for Entertaining the President Elect, &c., &c.

ALBANY, March 8, 1861.

The Broadway Railroad—The Cab Bills—New York Post Office—City Chamberlainship—Increase in the Number of Judges—Central Park Bill, de.

Judges—Central Park Bill, dc.

The Broadway Railroad bill is being worked here most adroitly by a Mr. Ward, the son in-law of Dr. Tyng, of Ball, Black & Co. memory. A number of the most wealthy gentlemen of New York and Westchester are enlisted in this project. A son of Mr. Myndert Van Schaick is among the number. The opposition is headed by Mr. Haight, owner of the St. Nicholas, Mr. Brooks, of Brooks, Brothers & Co., Hon. Benj. Wood, Tilden, ex-President of the Pacific Bank, and ex-Senator Beekman, assisted by solidated Stage Companies of your metropolis. The pros-pect of the success of the bill is indicated by the vote of the special committee to which the subject was referred. The bill will pase; the tribune supports* it; and the adverse action of the Governor is considered doubtful.

There are six cab bills before the Legislature. One was made up, it is said, by Billy Miner, the Register, as a mere joke. He put in, I learn, all whom he knew to be opposed to the passage of such measures—principally the livery stable keepers who are opposed to it. Tuey are all being fought against with vehemence by Bellows of the Metropolitan stables and the Astor House purveyer of horses and carriages. Want of grease for the wheels, however, is all that can prevent a final passage of some monopoly measure on this subject.

The bill in favor of retaining the Post Office in its present site will scarcely succeed. It is energetically opposed by Cozzens and by nearly all of the Metropolitan delegation. the special committee to which the subject was referred.

psent site win scarcely succeed. It is energetically opposed by Cozzens and by nearly all of the Metropolitan delegation.

A Central Park bill, giving the appointment of commissioners to the Board of Supervisors, has Hawley Clapp engineering it. He is enraged they say that his property was not taken by the present Commissioners at the price he had named. All those who are in the same category back him. Andrew H. Greene is here opposing any action. He is aided by the old clique, who possess the general favor. Supervisor Briggs cannot aid the passage of the bill, I think, though he also is in the traces. It will be defeated, beyond a doubt.

The Chamberlainship controversy has cutered into a new phase, within the last few days, through the presence of Bon. Wood. The Devlin and Stout parties have both found in him an indefatigable adversary, at least so far as rendering it impossible for either to take any step in advance. Each party has been aided by him, at the moment that the other seemed a little ahead, and thus, by playing them off a little adroitly, he has held both in check. I incline to think that neither the bill, nor the amendment will pass.

The session will fast, it is thought, one hundred and twenty days at least.

Albany, March 9, 1841.

ALBANY, March 9, 1861. The great subject of controversy just now is the Broad way Railroad, and one that is attracting a great deal of attention. Everybody expected a rich, racy and spicy time yesterday before the committee; but instead of that it was all one sided, like the handle of a jug. Instead of having a formidable array of men against it, only two persons made any remarks against the bill, and the position that they took was exceedingly unfortunate for them, for their arguments gave to the friends of the bill an excellent opportunity to upset all that they said; whilst, on the other hand, the friends of the bill met them at every point, and all present seemed to concur in the opinion that unless the opponents made a better show than that, the committee would be compelled to take judgment by default. Mesers. Haight and Beekman first planted themselves on the rights of the property holders on Broadway, and that they should control this matter; but when the other side asked the question whether the property holders on Broadway, who had their own carriages, and never rode in cars or omnibuses had greater interests in this matter than the hundreds of thousands of people who could not afford to keep a car riage, and, if no other mode was provided, would be compelled to go on foot, it forced the opponents to take the position that it would drive the cartmen and draymen who depended upon that business for their food, from the street, and in a measure injure their business; but when asked by Mr. Fullerton if a mechanic or a cartman had signed their remonstrance, he was informed in the negative, and on this point Mr. Fullerton made a strong

During the debate Mr. Haight characte bill as one of the most infamous of any that had ever been brought before the Legislature, full of hypocrisy pretending on its face to do things which they never is tended to do, and proceeded to point out the objections to the bill; but he, as well as Mr. Beckman, was evidently not prepared to talk upon the question, and did not really understand all its features, and they were placed in an exceedingly awkward position, and made themselves some what uncomfortable under the fires of the other side. Mr. Fullerton, taking the position that there was great need for relief of Broadway in some form, argued that this bill would accomplish that by taking out the omni-buses and doing the business with a less number of vehi-cles, which Mr. Ward had shown to the committee would take up but a trille more of superficial space than the omnibuses. As it is now, a lady cannot cross Broadway omnibuses. As it is now, a lady cannot cross Froadway without being placed under arrest and kept so until she reaches the other pavement, and she is then permitted to go her way until she wants to cross again, and then she must be arrested again. Those opposing this bill, he said, reminded him of the old political song—

I am opposed to the bank—I hate Biddle.

They make their regular visits to Europo, and come back here just in time to oppose a Broadway Railroad every year—singing

I am opposed to a Broadway Railroad.

The opponents of the bill made numerous assertions about the width of the street and other matters connected with the workings of the road, but, not having the data to back them, were completely driven from the their side; and the state they come better prepared next time they had better remain at home; for there is no denying the fact that many who were wavering before they head the argument yesterday are now openly for the road. I hear it said on all sides by members to day that if the opponents have no stronger argument than they used last night they had better give up the chase.

My despatch of last night stated that Mr. Wood argued in layor of the bill: it should have read Ward.

There seems to be some une siness in regard to the remonstrance against the Post Office bill. Mr. Coans rose to a question of privilege this morning, and stated that it was recorded on the journal as being presented by the Speaker. As he had been charged with calling for its reading, when no such remonstrance had been received, he would show those gentiemen, by the journal of the House, that it had been received and referred to a committee. It did not know whether it was of any importance or not, but he was told that it was, and it should be laid before the House.

The Standing Committee of the House reported several bills this midge the midge of the House that was and it should be laid before the House.

The central Park bill, as it passed the Senate, was also reported fravorably by the Committee of Cities and Villages, thus killing the Supervisor dodge, which would have pinced that public work, if adopted, in the hands of politicians and caprincipled speculature, who have, for a long time, been gaashing their teeth because they were not permitted to piunder the public. The bill reported simply extendite the remoter of other permittee of cities and Villages, thus killing the Supervisor dodge, which would have pinced that public work, if adopted, in the hands of politicians and caprincipled sp however, are drawing them around with a fair prospect of making up for lost time.

Superintendian number has found his way here, it is supposed for the puripse of answering Senator variety by resolution; but who knows but that he has got on the scent of seme monatrous plot to blow up the Capiton and smash things generity here? If there is anything of that kind, we beg Mr. Superintendent to to let it out, but let the deed be done, and the people will forgive all his past deeds and say that he was right in having Luncola take the midnight flight; but if he align, a his detective to expose it, the public—sepecially. Make man Brady, who declares (and he ought to know)—will a diver that the Legislature is the most corrupt set of sees, ideas that ever mut in any legislative by My.

The patitions recommending the appointment of this and that man to an office by Lincola are still exceedingly nurrerous, circulating amongst the members. I would advise some sate prising printer to strike off a quantity of blanks and send have. It is great trouble to write all these remonstrances, and, to save the members a great deal of annoyance, i would a tiggest, whilst thoy are about it, that they print the reput litera members agreed to the times. It is a great deal of trouble, and besides that it endangers a person locating his office by waiting here until the pages can carry the positions around acid get the signatures of the members. Whilst the applicant is waiting for the same position, and be appointed at once. With the Blank petitions and names attacked, all he has got to do is to pay his stayence, fill up the blank, put it into his pocket and start for Washington. The members sign all that come around, and I will guarantee that the printed petitions and signatures will be just as good as any other. Who will engage in the speculation?

Operatic and Dramatic Matters. The first Opera Season under the control of the Associated Italian Artists closed on Saturday, and the company left for Boston last evening. The campaign in the Puritan city will be commended this evening, and finished on Good Friday. During Faster week the artists will sing iere, en route to Philadelphia.

The season just concluded has been very successful in every way. It is the first instance on record this country where a combination of operation artists have been able to sustain themselves out bickering. The strongest "Artists' Union" ever formed here—Bosio, Salvi & Co.—was dissolved in a week, and others have had a still briefer existence. The present union has existed about six months, and will probably last some time losger. After a successful pro-vincial tour, the metropolitan senson was commenced on the 21st of January with "H Guramento," which Colson. Brigaeli and Ferri made a great artistic success. The opera was not generally liked, however, and was soon Brocklyz Opera House, with "Il Guiramento," and then came the debut of Miss Isabella Hinkley, who, being young. pretty, and gifted with a sweet, fresh and agreeable voice. nade quite a sensation. Miss Hinkley chose Lucia for he debut, and has since sung Leonora in the "Trovatore," Rosina in the "Barber," Zerlina (Don Giovaumi,) Adalgies in "Norma," and the Page (her best role) in "Un Balle Grisi style, made l'er debut (Jan. 31) ne Lucrezia Borgia and has since sung Penna Elvira in "Don-Giovanni," the latter a very good performance of a very unpopular role.

Pending the production of the new opers, "Marths," "Ernani" and the "Sicilian Vespers" were given (the Yes pers at Brooklyn only.) The performance of "Martha" by Colson, Phillips, Brignoli and Sunini, was especially excellent.

"Un Ballo in Maschera" was brought out at the New York Academy on the Illisof February, and has had a greater success than any opera since the "Trovatore." The score had something for all tastes. One amateu would declare for the Page's pretty air in the first act; others were entranced with the fine duet so admirably sung by Colson and Brignoli, and the lengthing oberus another party claimed Ferri's romance in the last act as the gem of the opera, while not a few young men and maidens found their gratification in getting into a hideous mask and a calico domino to promenade in the ball scene. The opera was very carefully done under the superintendence of Muzio, who has creatly distinguished nself by his clever and gentlemanly administration.

White in the leeight of its popularity the "Ballo" was taken off in order to permit Miss Kellogg to make her debut in "Rigoletto," which was given on Wednesday, 27th, Stigelli making his rentree in the tenor part. Miss Kellogg's Gilda was only a moderate success, but she repeated it on the next Saturday and showed marked improvement. On last Saturday she sung Linda, and took nother step forward, displaying much more dramatic power and artistic enthusiasm than before.

After the Kellogg excitement we had a mediocre

"Don Giovanni," and the Brookyn habitues were regaled with the "Puritani." The 'Polluto'' was announced here, but not given, several

"Norma" was given for the last night at Brooklyn, Madame Anna Bishop replacing Madame Colson, who was ill. At the Matinee Madame D'Ormy replaced Miss Phillips, who was on the sick list. These were the only changes during the season, which is remarkable when we consider that the artists did double the usual amount of work. The artists owe their profits to Brooklyn, where sixteen performances have been given to seven teen and two matinees here. The Opera being a ner sensation for our friends across the water, and the theatre nearly every night. Whether this en thusiasm will ever be rekindled will be a question of great importance to future managers. Elsewhere, the Opera seems to flourish well. We hear from New Orleans that Adelina Patti has sung Valentine ('les Huguenots') in French, drew a crowded house and made so great a success that the role of Dinoral ("Le Pardon de Pioermei") has been allotted to her. From Hayana we learn that Frezzolini has so fascinated the Cubans in Lucia that she has been re-engaged.

At the German Stadt theatre last week they brough out Offenbach's burlesque opera "Orpheus," with Madame Meaubert, 'Mile. Scheller, Messrs. Meaubert, Knorr, Klein and Krilling, in the principal roles. The prime donne are highly praised by competent judges. "Orpheus" made a hit, and is to be represented on this evening.

The English Opera season at Niblo's closed last week

It was not successful.

The theatres have been quite dull latterly, and the public are waiting for a new sensation. During the week Miss Cushman played Meg Morrilles, Nancy Sykes, Lady Teazle and Katharine ("Taming of the Shrew"), and finished her engagement at the Winter Garden on Satur day. She is to be succeeded by Miss Jane Coombs, who nakes her rentree to night in Margaret Elmore ("Love's

At the New Bowery theatre a new local drama, by Mr. G. H. Andrews, called "The Cock of the Walk," will be produced this evening, with a new English play, "Simon Jennings" and "The Lottery Ticket." At the Union (late National) theatre a te drama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," will be produced with two other pieces. At Barnum's Museum a new drama, "Gitanelli, or the Children of the Zincali," will be produced to-day, with new scenery, appointments, &c., &c.

The field of African Opera is now occupied exclusively by the Bryant Minstrels. As usual they offer a capital programme, winding up with the immortal "Dixie."

The Oil Excitement in Varginia—Letting of Claims.

[From the Wheeling Intelligencer, March 8.]

Mr. A. Pollock bas just roturned from the Kanawha oil regions, and has kindly furnished us a few items, which we know will be as interesting as anything else in these oily times. There is a large milux of strangers at Parkersburg from all saris of the country. The usyars about the piace night and day, do little else than make out leases. Provisions and bardware houses feel little or none of the present panie. The steamboars and the rail-reads are having heavy receipts from the oil interests. Kanawha river is literally covered with flat-beats and the beatteen are now on a strike. They ask two dollors a barrel for taking the gresse to Parkersburg. The producers are only willing to give a dollar and fity cents. Lands are leased on both sider of the Kanawha at enormous rates, the leases extending from four to live miles into the interior. The number engaged in the production of oil from Parkersburg to Burning spring linn is not less than 4,000. The oil is found at from 125 to 225 feet, for which distance the cost of boring is about $3 per foot. Large supplies of barrels are received from the country where the barrels are now being filled with the "greasy," Sub-leases cannot be had in the vicinity of the large producing wells at less than from one to three thousand collairs an acre.
